report to the listener

Dear Listener,

I was reading a recent edition of the Utne Reader devoted to "Tribalism and Community." One of the articles noted that very few examples of multicultural role models exist in the mass media. The article named "Star Trek" (past and present), the PBS show "Sesame Street" and the British firm, Benetton, whose ad campaigns create definitive cultural statements.

Then I remembered the Benetton billboard I'd seen in West Hollywood earlier this year. It went up at La Cienega and San Vicente in the first few days of May. It depicted a burning car.

ALAN FONG

It's sad, this lack of culturally plural (if that's the "politically correct" word) role modeling. It's so sad as to become unforgivable, considering the world in which we live. Yet the need for working together does not disappear despite the poverty of mass culture. In fact the issues go deeper than most culture producers seem able to grasp. You should know, however, that we try to take on the deep issues at KPFK.

We fare better at some times than others and we choose the struggle. It goes with the territory: grappling with race and class issues, ever skeptical of conventional wisdoms, so serious as not to be taken seriously sometimes.

Most of all, we've tried to learn from the past to grasp a better future. And we've evolved a plan—which we have told you before goes by the name Strategic Plan—to reach the future. While this Plan is just some words on a page now, the test will come in what you hear down the road.

And down the road we will present you with higher quality radio: better produced, intelligently assembled, stories of urban and country southern California. We will take our present training program and add basic journalism to the core curriculum; we will train a corps of program producers to work on our prime time broadcasts in the morning and evening drive times. We will work toward informing an intercultural audience about issues of both local and global importance. We will speak to people who should feel the potential of their own individual and collective power.

That's the vision within the overall goal of better managing KPFK's programming to reach a broader and more diverse audience.

We hope you will stay with us over what appears to be a year or more of transition. During the interim, we will continue to initiate special programming to prepare you and ourselves for the future. We are committed to the hard issues: race and class; tribalism and the community; philosophy and politics.

Don't forget the last day to register for Election Day is October 5th.

And, if you haven't noticed, KPFK will be engaged in a fund drive as this Folio arrives at your door. Please support listener-sponsored KPFK. Unlike voting, your support can come early and often—and you won't be able to tear yourself away from the dynamic fund drive programming we have planned.

The Pacifica Foundation provides the KPFK mailing list to an organization which in turn rents or exchanges, on behalf of the Foundation, mailing lists of other non-profit organizations. If you object to having your name and address used in this way, please write to our Subscriptions Department, enclosing a recent Folio label, and we will omit you from our exchange list.

If your request has already been entered into the computer, the letters "NX" will appear on the top line of your mailing label, to the right of the expiration date.

COUNTER QUINCENTENNIAL

We present a broad spectrum of honest reflections on Columbus' "discovery" and its aftermath. Enfoque Latino brings us a different take on the celebrations from 10:00-Mid, Oct. 10; Fred Hyatt plays Milhaud's Christopher Columbus during Sunday Opera (10/11, 1:00 pm); throughout the weekend we'll cover various counter Quincentennial events. And Monday the 12th, tune in for a full day of observations: Columbus, a Radio Composition (6:00 am, 10:30 pm), Mario's Many Worlds of Music brings us music from some of the country's original inhabitants (9:30 am), as does Music of the Americas (noon); Break the Blackout offers another exploration (2:00 pm); and Our Story combines music, poetry and storytelling with critical historical analysis (7:30 pm).

L.A. AFTERMATH

Only 5 months after the LA Uprisings and we are still trying to pick up the pieces. These programs offer a view of the city from several perspectives. Leonard Brown, an unpredictable programmer out of our past, rejoins us for a series about what he calls "Lost Angeles." This civics class from hell includes satire, commentary, a cast of several and many interviews. And it's all about reconciliation. Join us over the next two months for City on the Rim. (10/15, 5:00 pm; 10/23, 7:30 pm; 10/30, 2:00 pm; 11/6, 2:00 pm; 11/20, 2:30 pm); Mark Torres brings us Commentary L.A. (10/22, 7:00 pm; 11/12, 7:00 pm); and Citywatch fills us in (10/30, 7:00 pm; 11/12, 7:30 pm).

COMMUNICATION REVOLUTION

KPFA's 1992 Telecommunications Radio Project continues during October and November with enlightening programs about modern technology and how it affects every aspect of our lives. From the library of the future to regulations and legislation, to technology's impact on the democratic process, to painting a picture of tomorrow's workplace, this program will bring you the sounds of things to come (every Wednesday at noon).

ELECTION '92

As we come upon this year's presidential elections, KPFA will offer an extensive coverage and a different perspective. The tentatively-scheduled Debate starts things off on October 4; Jackie Apple brings us parts 4 & 5 of Redefining Democracy in America, which features the voices of public radio listeners, each given three minutes during April and May to address their fellow citizens on their vision of the future (10/20, 11/17, 8:30 pm); Pacific's National Town Hall Meeting profiles the Electoral Process (10/29, 5:00 pm). The program will examine electoral reform in a time of diminishing voter turn-out, looking specifically at voter registration, campaign financing and term limits. The meeting will also look at third parties: is it time? Are they possible within our form of government? Would dissatisfied people have a better chance of taking over the local Democratic and Republican Parties than of forming a successful third party? Hosted by Larry Bensky, this program is produced by Ginny Z. Berson and executive produced by Bill Wax. Furthermore, a series of election watch panels (10/16, 2:00 pm; 10/23, 7:30 am; 10/31, 7:30 am), election night coverage (11/3 from 7:00 pm), and an election wrap-up (11/6, 7:30 am) will take us through the day and give us a look at the consequences.

MALCOLM X

With X, the major new motion picture on opening in November, the memory of Malcolm X has been projected in popular culture as never before. In Malcolm X and Spike Lee Earl Ofari Hutchinson looks at the significance of the film for the African American struggle (10/14, 7:15 am); Malcolm Little, Malcolm X, El-Hajj Malik Al-Shabazz profiles the man through his words, and the eyes of scholars, authors, poets, musicians and laypeople. This three-part program by Jan Robinson Flint examines Malcolm X's influence on Islam as it is practiced in the U.S. today. Tune in for comments from the producers of the upcoming film, as well as panel discussions by people who knew and were influenced by the man. (11/14, 10:00 pm; 11/16, 7:00 pm; 11/18, 7:00 pm).

THANKSGIVING

Give thanks to the people whose land we are truly celebrating today, November 26th. Our full day's celebration programming begins with a discussion of Native American Life (7:00 am); In The Decline of Western Civilization, Amerindian John Mowhawk discusses the patterns and failures of Euramerican dominance (8:00 am); Brian May plays us folk music (9:00 am); Break the Blackout concludes with its fifth program exploring the 500th anniversary of Columbus' arrival (noon); Stories from the Spirit World reveals the myths and legends of Native Americans in wonderful dramatizations (4:00 pm); and John Trudell brings us recently-recorded Poetry and Commentary from the American Indian Community House in New York (7:00 pm).

CELEBRATION OF MUSLIM PEOPLES AND CULTURES

Leading up to our special event, the Morning Readings (week of 11/19, 11:30 am) feature stories by Iranian Women Since the Revolution; During the Thanksgiving weekend, we celebrate and spotlight Arab and Muslim communities of the Southland. Tune in for a weekend of music, poetry and literature readings, lectures, and live in-studio panel discussions on political and social issues. (11/27, 7:00 am; 11/28, 8:30 am; 11/29, 9:00 am).

SQUARE PEGS

Jan Robinson Flint brings us a Family Tree Special: Educating your African American Child (10/14, 7:00 pm); Sunday Opera host Fred Hyatt will feature your desert island choices during the months of October and November. Splendid music, incomparably performed, is absolutely guaranteed; We bring you the Collapse of Banking in "The Great S&L Robbery" you'll hear the background of deregulation and Reaganomics, which led to the great S&L robbery. Part 2, The Collapse of Banking shows that the American banking system is crumbling as well (10/17, 10:00 pm); Part 3 highlights Henry Gonzales and the new world banking order from Iraqgate to the U.S. Congress, BCCI, the intelligence community and points beyond... (1/24, 10:00 pm); The North American Free Trade Agreement Radio Series examines the implications of that agreement (10/19, 10/24, 11/13, 3:00 pm; 10/29, 8:00 pm); Enfoque Latino celebrates Día de los Muertos (11/2, 2:00 pm), and the Mexican Revolution (11/20, 2:00 pm); Celebrate African Women's Music with a Spotlight Africa special (11/6, 8:00 pm).

THE COMMUNICATIONS

Marian the Librarian Meets the CyberSpace Info-Surfer: How Modern Telecommunications Technologies are Reshaping the World of Information. From the perspective of classic American philanthropists, the Public Library was a temple of knowledge, a manifestation of the melting pot which could transform the diverse masses into informed American citizens. The gates of each beneficent but modest temple were guarded by a librarian, a member of a reform-minded, service profession. Today information and communications are rapidly growing sectors of the economy; and modern telecommunications technologies such as computers, modems, and compact discs have radically changed information storage and delivery systems. What has happened to libraries, and to librarians in the new competitive world where information is power, technology reigns supreme, books are simply one of many media, and community services, and even formal education is not a financial priority. Have we entered the age of the virtual library? What is the price of access to information? Who are the new gatekeepers? What has become of the American democratic ideal of the informed electorate? Host, Jude Thilman; Feature Producer, Claire Schoen; Executive Director Bari Scott.

COLUMBUS:
A RADIO COMPOSITION

Part 1: Columbus the Christ Bearer; Part 2: Tecun Uman the Mayan King Tune in for this radio composition by Andrew Phillips. This program combines a variety of traditional dramatic radio forms and sound gathered in the Guatemalan cloud forests and at Tikal, a center of Mayan life in pre-Columbian Guatemala. Columbus' subtext draws from Jonathon Evan Maslow's book about his search for the elusive Quetzal bird, the national bird of freedom in Guatemala.

Columbus includes the letter Columbus sent to the Spanish court announcing his "discovery" of the Americas; the observations of Columbus' contemporary, Dominican priest, Frey Bartolome de Las Casas from his writings "The Devastation of the Indies," probably the first example of human rights reporting in the world; readings from Eduardo Galiano's "Memories of Fire: Genesis;" an aural exploration of the New York Public Library's collection — the world's largest — of original Columbus letters. Music from the Hilliard Ensemble: "Music from the Courts of Ferdinand and Isabel" and "Cancionero de la Columbina," said to have belonged to Columbus' son Ferdinand, and the first known surviving manuscript of Spanish polyphony.

This program concludes with parts 3 and 4 tonight at 10:30. Produced by Andrew Phillips.

Susanne Shapiro Plays Soler You can't say KPFK never offers harpsichord music. Mario Casetta is visited in Studio D by Susanne Shapiro, live, (has harpsichord, will travel) for Sonatas by 18th century Catalonian, Antonio Francisco Javier Soler Ramos who studied at the 12th century Escolania at the monastery of Montserrat, took his vows at the Escorial in 1752 and devoted his life there to music. Susanne may have missed the monastery, but she trained at the Royal Academy of Music in London and the Julliard School of Music, and taught at the University of Indiana, Pepperdine University and the University of California, Riverside (currently), and, yes, she'll lug the damn thing in.

MEETINGS*5:00-7:00 pm*PACIFICA'S TOWN HALL MEETING

The Electoral Process During the first hour of this program we'll examine electoral reform in a time of diminishing voter turnout, looking specifically at voter registration, campaign financing and term limits. Speakers include William Greider, author of Who will Tell the People: The Betrayal of American Democracy; Steve Schwalm, congressional analyst at the Heritage Foundation, a conservative Washington, D.C. think tank; Rebecca Walker, co-founder of Third Wave; and Dr. Ron Walters, professor of Political Science at Howard University.

During the second hour, we'll examine third parties: is it time? Are they possible within our form of government? Would dissatisfied people have a better chance of taking over the local Democratic and Republican parties than of forming a successful third party? Speakers include Gordon Black, a founding member and coordinator of the Independence Party; Sandy Pope, national organizer for the New Party, a grassroots-based, democratic political party now being actively formed in over a dozen states; and Dr. Ron Walters.

Hosted by Larry Bensky, this program is produced by Ginny Z. Berson and executive produced by Bill Wax.

THE COMMUNICATIONS REVOLUTION

The Government Information Bazaar: Sold to the Highest Bidder — Privatization and Access to Government Information in the Electronic Age. The right of American citizens to have convenient access to the records of their government has been regarded as a fundamental requirement for democracy since the Declaration of Independence, and has been considered an important government responsibility as well. Recent trends toward privatization of government information, and budget cost-cutting measures resulting in the reduction of printing and distribution of government information have challenged these democratic assumptions. Over the years, laws, customs and regulations have detailed and enforced the citizens' right of access to printed government information and paper records. To what extent will these rights be extended to electronic records, for whose convenience and at what cost? Host, Jude Thilman; Feature Producer, Harry Lin; Executive Director Bari Scott.

MALCOLM LITTLE, MALCOLM X,
EL-HAJJ MALIK AL SHABAZZ;
THREE LIFE TIMES IN THE ESSENCE OF ONE MAN

In this comprehensive look at the life and times of El-Hajj Malik El-Shabazz, KPFF will profile this African-American martyr through the words of Malcolm X, the eyes of various scholars, authors, poets, musicians, laymen and people in the street. The objective of this series is to present Malcolm X as he was and how he was viewed by different people and segments of society, and to explore his impact on the world today.

KPFF will also speak with members of the film industry, producers of Spike Lee's X (due to open Nov. 20th), and discuss the impact of media, media as a political tool, and the power equation of African Americans with the media, particularly in regard to X. We will attempt to prepare our listening audience by airing comments by Dr. John Henrik Clark and Sonia Sanchez on their relationship and memories of El-Shabazz, panel discussions with members of the Nation of Islam concerning Malcolm X's influence on Islam as it is practiced in the United States today, especially among African Americans. We will speak with Yuri Kochiyama about her relationship with Asians, Mark Ouidu on the popularity of Malcolm with young people today, Chukwe Lumumba concerning the impact felt by the Pan-African and Nationalist movements, and also with (hopefully) Dr. Betty Shabazz on the example El-Hajj Malik Al-Shabazz set as a family man. We will air speeches by Malcolm X, "Message to the Grassroots," "Ballots or Bullets," plus others to let you witness the words of the man himself. Tune in to this thought provoking, informative program before you attend the movie. Produced by Jan Robinson-Flint

The Old Ways Are Gone: The Cahuilla Indians of Southern California While in his 70s, tribal singer Perfecto Segundo recorded the Creation Myth of the Cahuilla Indians for anthropologist Arthur Harrington. The recordings were lost until the project's research team relocated them in the Smithsonian. This retelling interweaves the myth with a fiesta and vignettes of contemporary Cahuilla life. Written and produced by Everett Frost with assistance from Mariano and Katherine Seva Saubel. Associate Producer, Faith Wilding. Consultant: Lowell John Bean.

The Legend of the Sun: Aztec Mythology This dramatized version of the Aztec creation myth examines the mythic origins to human sacrifice from the Aztec point of view and tells the story of the four primordial gods that vie for control of the universe, creating cataclysms and ultimately agreeing to share power and create the present age. Written and produced by Everett Frost and Faith Wilding.

Production engineer, Joe Cuneo.
